Unless extraordinary action is taken Madeleine McCann will not be found

The World Report Agency Intelligence Information on the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann

The title of this writing was chosen to point out at an important piece of information related to the kidnapping and disappearance of Madeleine McCann on May 3, 2007 in Portugal.

The intelligence report is dated September 20, 2008 and it includes information on paedophilia, child abuse, and "snuff" movies that take place regularly at different locations within Belgium under the auspices and financing by high ranking officials at the European Commission [EC] with headquarters in Brussels. The portion of the 37-page report that focus on the case is published at www.worldreports.org under the heading "Madeleine McCann and the European Commission paedophile scandal" at page 23. The report states in part this:

[...] "It was confirmed on August 7, 2007 by the Metropolitan Police of London that Madeleine McCann was abducted on orders by a paedophile organisation based in Belgium. We have been informed that the way this depraved activity operates is by the 'client' receiving three photographs of different children who chooses one and is then provided with the child to meet his depraved requirements. The individual who selected Madeleine McCann is a high ranking official at the European Commission in Brussels, and his name has been reported to this service."

At that point in the report the Editor had decided not to reveal the identity of the EC official but later that position was changed and this was added:

"Late insertion: The Editor had intended to withhold the identity of the European Commission official concerned. However, in light of the threat and given that in these circumstances the lapse of time between the threat and exposure that must be minimised, we have been forced to reveal the name of the official concerned. His hereby shamed name is Jose Manuel Barroso, President of the European Commission."

The report continues by informing the reader that the paedophile and abduction ring is actually run out of the EC itself. The report says also that "all those concerned must be aware of the consequences by further exposing this matter as it would compromise perverted politicians in the Netherlands, Portugal, Spain, Belgium, the UK, as well as in the corrupt European Union rotten structures."

Considering the source, the report does not appear to be something that was made up out of one's lunatic imagination and should not be ignored, in particular the confirmation by the Metropolitan Police of London. Additionally, you probably know that there are many unqualified individuals who spend time at computers writing and publishing on the Internet all sorts of material without having real knowledge of the subject, or training as professional journalists. This is one negative aspect of the Internet that can blur the credentials of those who are true professionals of non-conventional news and information based on intelligence investigation methods.

The World Reports Agency is not the average reporting source that you can find in the news published or broadcast on conventional controlled media. In fact, the Agency works totally independent from the controlled media whose function is either distorting the truth or tell blatant lies. In contrast with this fact, the Agency's area of speciality is to collect highly sensitive knowledge supplied to them by insiders working on their behalf who leaked the information to be thoroughly processed for accuracy before making it public. What can you say about a professional investigative agency on whose intelligence advice the British government had reliance on for years? The investigation after Christopher Story's death in mysterious circumstances has revealed some aspects related to the methods used by the Agency under his leadership, and it is this information that is making the bulk of the weight with regards to the involvement behind the scenes, of those mentioned in the report as being ultimately responsible for the kidnapping and disappearance of Madeleine McCann. Why isn't the report taken seriously by those concerned? One possible answer to this question might be that some people probably think that Christopher Story was trying to gain notoriety, recognition, or even "stardom" status in a famous case, but none of these apply to this professional who was most likely concerned at the time with exposing the evil and corruption inside the EC than with Madeleine McCann. In fact, the report does not necessarily concentrate on her only but provides a link into the dark and terrifying evil world of the EC and by extension, the illuminati-controlled European Union corruption and wickedness at all levels. We believe that the report by the World Reports Agency in connection with the kidnapping case of Madeleine McCann to be true. So assuming hypothetically that the report is true and accurate, it wouldn't be too difficult to understand why so many obstacles apparently created to thwart the efforts to find the truth, popped up all the time since the beginning of this hideous and heinous ordeal in what seems to be, an attempt to cover up and protect those high-level officials directly or indirectly responsible for the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann on May 3, 2007 in Praia da Luz, Portugal.

Independent from what real progress -if any- has been or is being made by the private investigators working on the case, there are reasons to believe that unless extraordinary measures are used as tactics or methods in the search for Madeleine, the possibility of not finding her is high and real, if considering the valid theory that prominent officials are involved in her abduction while hiding behind the scenes. This means that everything and everyone that is part of the structure that make up the system is or will be on the side of those the Agency reported as being ultimately responsible for her kidnapping and present captivity, if she is still alive. We insist that conventional methods will not work considering all the vital elements that make up the evidence on the case, including what is being denied to the private investigators by the government on the basis of being "too sensitive" to be disclosed. It doesn't take an expert to figure out why important evidence is being withheld under the guise of being "too sensitive." They are protecting the paedophiles that are overwhelmingly great in numbers in all branches of government! This is really what is important to them and not the children who are the victims of their sick perversion.

We know there are individuals in the Portuguese officialdom and in the Portuguese prison system that could have vital information on who planned and executed the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann on orders by leaders of a criminal organisation based in Belgium, but with presence in Portugal. We don't know at this point exactly who they are but have ideas on who they might be. What we would need to do is get hold of them and force the information out by any means necessary. This is the only way to obtain key information on who kidnapped Madeleine McCann, for what purpose, on behalf of whom, and where was she taken to after the abduction. Conventional investigation methods are a spinning wheel that will not work in this case due to its nature, which includes a very possible connection with previous child abductions in specific areas of Portugal with similar modus operandi traits suggesting the link.

Other abduction cases

Back in 2009 we participated in a forum that supports the McCann family and came across information related to the geographical areas of Portugal where almost all child abductions took place at least since the early 1990s. We took the information, analyze it thoroughly and verified the authenticity by consulting every newspaper where the news or information on each case was published, and after months of continuous and intensive work, we were satisfied that the information provided by the participant in the forum was true. According to the participant, with the exception of two on the Island of Madeira, all other child abductions within Portugal took place in and around the areas of Oporto [North] and Praia da Luz [South] only.

The list of kidnappings in the North of Portugal includes the following:

- Jorge Sepulveda, a boy age 10, abducted in April 1991 in the Massareles area near Oporto.
- Claudia Alexandra Silva de Sousa, a girl age 7, abducted in May 1994 in the Vila Verde area around Oporto.
- Rui Pedro, a boy age 12, abducted in March 1998 in the Lousada area near Oporto.
- Rui Pereira, a boy age 12, abducted in February 1999 in Nova Vila da Famalicao, around the Oporto area.

The list of kidnappings in the South of Portugal includes the following:

- Rene Hasee, a boy age 6 and citizen of Germany, abducted in June 1996 while on the Amoreiras beach near-by the Atlantic Coast.
- Joanna Cipriano, a girl age 7, abducted in 2004 in Figueira, located 7 miles from Praia da Luz.
- Carolina Santos, a girl age 3, attempted abduction in Silves during 2006.
- Madeleine McCann, a girl age 3, British citizen, abducted on May 3, 2007 in Praia da Luz.

None of the victims listed above were found which supports the theory that child abductions in Portugal are irreversible. Besides abductions there were also murders of children in Portugal for different reasons and at different times but all in the same areas of the country. Meanwhile, the participant informed also that the City of Funchal in Madeira is known internationally as child prostitution "supermarket," where rich tourists travelling in their private yachts, very frequently stop by to "purchase" a child that may be available for sale by criminal organisations openly and with the knowledge of the police operating there. Child porn videos and "snuff" [murder] movies featuring stolen children are also made for profit at different locations within the Island. Madeleine could have been taken to Madeira since it is believed that she was taken out the Praia da Luz area by sea.

In addition to the above, hard core paedophile Carlos "Bibi" Silvino who is well known for his role in the biggest corruption and perversion scandal in the history of contemporary Portugal known as "Casa Pia," is now serving a prison term for his crimes against hundreds of innocent children at the orphanage where he worked as caretaker. The available records show that "Bibi" was in charge of transporting children to be abused from the orphanage to luxurious homes located in districts where only rich neighbours lived; the trips were made to places within Lisbon as well as to other areas outside the Portuguese mainland, including Madeira for which the sea transport provided to carry children, was under his direct supervision and responsibility to deliver them to be abused. Considering his criminal background as a hard core paedophile, and close association with high-ranking individuals in government, he should be a subject of interest to the investigators working on the case of Madeleine McCann. What he knows, make him a source of information regarding the location of places where kidnapped children in Portugal may be taken to according to plans. He is also very likely to know who is involved in child abduction and abuse in Portugal and their mysterious disappearance as in the case of Madeleine McCann.

Are Gerry and Kate McCann really controlled by the satanic illuminati?

Gerry and Kate McCann are accused of allowing the abduction of their daughter Madeleine by the illuminati

The wonder on whether or not the McCann's are controlled by the satanic illuminati and that the kidnapping of their daughter Madeleine is the result of that has been circulating in cyberspace for sometime. We have been aware of this claim but were reluctant to reach conclusions [as some people have done] on an accusation that has not been proven yet, and therefore, inappropriate to make assertions on it without any evidence. Our writing and publishing principles prohibit us from doing this.

What has motivated us to write and publish this piece now is some contents in a comment made by one reader of an article by Henry Makow published at his website entitled "Crazed MI-5 and MI-6 wreak havoc for the illuminati" that you can read at www.henrymakow.com/mi-5\_and\_mi-6\_wreak\_havoc\_for.html. The comment by the reader "Chris" reads as follows:

"The parents of Madeleine McCann were part of an illuminati mind control ring themselves. They know exactly what happened to her but were powerless to stop it. I was already aware that by allowing their daughter to be kidnapped, the McCann's were unable to avoid obeying the orders of their illuminati controllers. I was also aware that innocent Madeleine was intended to become the sex toy of illuminati insider, paedophile, degenerate, former President of Portugal, and leader of the European Commission, Jose Manuel Barroso. This is one reason why the abduction of Madeleine was conveniently arranged to take place in Portugal, and the other is that the police could be relied upon to make a total botch of the 'investigation' into Maddy's disappearance since most of the senior officers as well as the great majority of government ministers, are members of the same paedophile elite ring that Barroso belongs to. I have to confess that I was not previously aware that Maddy McCann is now dead, but I am not surprised since as long as she remained alive, there was always a risk of the truth leaking out in some way. Moreover, being now aware of the background of both Barroso and the McCann's the manner of Maddy's death in a ritual blood sacrifice to Satan also has a degree of perversion. Finally, no informed researcher is aware of the fact that the misperceived Harry Potter author J.K. Rowling is also an illuminati member and Satanist, who is regularly called upon by the council of thirteen to don her witches garb, and to act as mistress of ceremonies whenever supreme knowledge and imperfection of the Satanic 'art' is imperative. Ms. Rowling was present at the rite in which Madeleine died and her reward offer [after Madeleine's kidnapping] was all even more sickening."

We do not endorse all the affirmations made by the author nor do we take his written words at face value because he fails to show with conclusive evidence that everything he wrote is true beyond doubt. However, we do identify and agree with parts of his writings related to the likely involvement in the abduction of Madeleine McCann by prominent political figures in Portuguese society, including former president Jose Manuel Barroso, and members of the officialdom occupying high positions in government and society. You may or may not know it, but the depth of official corruption and perversion prevailing in Portugal is a well-documented fact that you can verify anytime, and it is based on this fact that we concluded in June 2007 that Madeleine McCann was kidnapped on behalf of one or more individuals in the Portuguese elite class acting behind the scenes and for an specific purpose, and we still maintain this position today based on our knowledge of Portugal, and by extension, Spain too in view of their similarities.

There are two parts in the comment written by the reader of Henry Makow's article which we are in tune with. The first one reads like this:

[...] "I was also aware that innocent Madeleine was intended to become the sex toy of illuminati insider, paedophile, degenerate, former President of Portugal, and leader of the European Commission, Jose Manuel Barroso."

No one here can nor will attest to the author's thesis on Mr. Barroso, but we are nevertheless, entitled to think and believe whatever we want and exercise this right anywhere and anytime. We believe that Mr. Barroso is an evil, corrupt, amoral, and perverted man capable of sexually abusing a little girl. We have arrived at this belief based on the social reality of his native Portugal and on the amount of information available at websites, blogs, forums, and other non-conventional sources of knowledge regarding him personally and the European Commission [EC] which he preside at the time of this writing. There are several credible sources exposing him and the EC but the most outstanding one is the World Reports Agency [<http://worldreports.org>] led by renowned veteran investigative journalist Christopher Story. Mr. Story is a professional exceeding the requirements anyone would need to directly accuse Mr. Barroso of ordering the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann, as he did by publishing the information on his website for the world to see. Beside high quality investigative journalism, his curriculum includes a solid background in intelligence work at the service of the British government for many years, among other outstanding credentials that place him in a position of credibility in matters of this nature. In addition, Mr. Story has also exposed the EC in ways others are not doing [that we know of] regarding the internal hidden reality of that place he once called a "paedophile criminal organization." We agree with Mr. Story's assessment of the EC. In numerous videos, articles, and in other forms of expression he has shed light on the sinister and chilling dark side of the EC which he once referred to as "the devil's pit" from where some of the most evil criminal plans of perversion and even murder, were conceived and carried out against innocent children. Mr. Barroso may not be the actual executioner of criminal plans but he may be involved from behind the scenes as he was in the case of Madeleine McCann according to Mr. Story. We take his investigative journalism work seriously and give a degree of credibility to his reports, but this does not mean that we blindly accept everything he writes and publishes. However, this case is exceptional for different reasons including the deep political and personal implications that arose when he publicly accused Mr. Barroso of ordering the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann. Mr. Barroso became aware of the serious accusations made against him yet he did nothing to clear his name and position as President of the EC. His silence triggers even greater suspicions and rise more questions regarding this rather tumultuous affair.

The second part in the comment written by the reader of Henry Makow's article is also compatible with our line of thinking on this case. It reads like this:

[...] "This is one reason why the abduction of Madeleine was conveniently arranged to take place in Portugal, and the other is that the police could be relied upon to make a total botch of the 'investigation' into Maddy's disappearance, since most of the senior officers as well as the great majority of government ministers, are members of the same paedophile elite ring that Barroso belongs to."

By now everyone following up on this case knows about the cover-up theory that Madeleine died in the room where she was sleeping and that her parents hid the corpse to avoid responsibility. We don't know if in fact the abduction of Madeleine was "conveniently arranged to take place in Portugal" as the author asserts but do know -as well as you- that the "investigation" into her disappearance was a total farce, a fact everyone knows by now.

With regards to the paedophile affliction that Portugal suffers from at the highest level of government and society, this pathetic reality is so deeply entrenched that it has become part of the national folklore many are even "proud" of and defend with great zeal. The depth of Portugal's sickness is not easily imaginable in the English speaking world due to language and cultural differences, but people need to see it the way it really is and not only as a country with warm climate and sunny beaches. The same applies to Spain where corruption and perversion is at core level in a society where extreme right wing gangsters are actually running the country with impunity in a two-party system. Spain and Portugal are under total illuminati control thanks in part to the legacy inherited by the historical and contemporary presence of Jews in both countries. Additionally, Jose Luis Rodriguez Zapatero, president of the Spanish government at the time of this writing is a well-known Mason and very loyal to his ideological commitments and subordinated to those in control. Mr. Zapatero and Queen Sofia de Bourbon along with other prominent figures in the country's political and social life were present at the last Bilderberg meeting held in Catalonia. These facts shed light on a reality that is kept hidden from the public, and replaced with a constant and sickening nuisance praising the monarchy as the "saviour" from the wrath of former fascist dictator Francisco Franco as a daily consumption in the Zionist controlled mass media.

What we have outlined here is compatible with our idea that behind the abduction and disappearance of Madeleine McCann, are powerful individuals in the Portuguese elite class linked to the satanic illuminati now being aided and protected by a herd of morons, who became guided drones in an idiotic mission to protect the interest of a perverted and sick paedophile criminal cabal who prey on innocent children. These drones are very conscious of what they are doing and can be categorized as enemies of the common people for their support of evil, and should be dealt with very severely when the objective conditions are present. Supporting the false theory that Madeleine died in the room where she was sleeping and that her parents hid the body, plus being an active participant in a campaign to derail the search for the child, are actions favourable to those who are ultimately responsible for the crime, regardless of whether or not the abduction and disappearance of Madeleine was the result of her parents being controlled by the illuminati satanic cult, as some people assert but without showing any credible proof to support their claim.

Regarding the rest of the contents in the comment made by the reader of Henry Makow's article, including the alleged presence of Joanne Kathleen Rowling in a satanic blood ritual where Madeleine supposedly died, we apply the same conclusion as we did on the other claims and don't think additional elaborations are necessary in that and other areas of the comment.

This earlier writing has now become credible in many Internet media sources

Did the Portuguese police kidnap Madeleine Mc Cann?

The Spanish media Internet source JM Noticias [JM News] at www.jmnoticias.com published on February 8, 2008 an article entitled in Spanish: ¿Secuestro un policia a Madeleine Mc Cann? Translation: Did a policeman kidnap Madeleine Mc Cann? According to the article, while the elite-controlled media have been publishing speculations on Madeleine's case, the author of a blog had predicted that the Portuguese police would declare Gerry and Kate Mc Cann "arguidos" [suspects] as a tactic to conceal the implication of police officers in the abduction and disappearance of Madeleine on May 3, 2007. In the blog titled "master of fate" some unusual and suspicious photographs show Gerry and Kate Mc Cann being closely watched by a policeman shortly before Madeleine vanished. The author of the blog who goes by the anonymous "Inu Yasha" assures his audience that [...] "the Portuguese police have not really been looking for Maddie because they know where she is. The police have instead dedicated to create a hostile environment against her parents so they can charge them with the death of their daughter." Mr. "Yasha" further continues by stating that [...] "instead of looking for the little girl since they know where she is, the Portuguese police have been preparing the terrain by working very intensively on creating a favourable public opinion with the end in mind to imprison both parents and close the case." The article informs that in his blog, the author wrote that the Portuguese police is repeating the same tricks used in an earlier and similar case in which the mother of another little girl who was also abducted and disappeared not far from Praia da Luz, was convicted without evidence after suffering great torture. "It is almost exactly to the case of Leonor Cipriano who was convicted of murdering her daughter Joanna even though there was no proof that the child had died. I believe the little girl was abducted on orders by an international paedophile organisation with presence in Portugal. As in Joanna's case the final outcome in Madeleine's will be the same," wrote the author on his blog. Mr. "Yasha" also stated that in the suspicious pictures one can see Robert Murat in the company of the police and a Negro man that was spying on Madeleine before her abduction. In fact, the Negro appears in the background of a picture looking at Madeleine while she was playing with her father and the other two children. The blog is located at <http://masalladeloobvio.spaces.live.com> [in Spanish].

In our opinion, the information featured in the JM Noticias article on the contents of the blog is neither necessarily frivolous nor unfounded. If you would look into the numerous facts and details related to the Portuguese police performance on Madeleine's case since day one, you would probably conclude that it is now a puzzle with too many pieces all scattered and deliberately being kept that way by a sinister veil of secrecy. What or who is the Portuguese police protecting? The answer to this question can only be obtained by conducting a thorough investigation of the Portuguese police itself by an outside force. All the pieces of the puzzle need to be put in place for all to see and understand the truth related to the well-planned and executed abduction of Madeleine McCann. Only then will her parents get the answers to the three questions:

- 1) Who abducted Madeleine?
- 2) Why?
- 3) Where is she being kept against her will?

Until the above-mentioned is done the actual situation of uncertainties will continue on while Madeleine suffers in God knows what conditions...

Conclusion

After studying some Portuguese history in contemporary times plus journalistic research on the possible connection between Madeleine's abduction, and the well-entrenched paedophilia and hard-core officialdom corruption in Portugal, we think there is a possibility that one or more member(s) of the Portuguese police were involved in the abduction. If this turns out to be the case it would not be a surprise at all. More information on related writings published here. Continuous research has produced an amount of information in different Internet media outlets pointing out to the Portuguese police involvement in the kidnapping and mysterious disappearance of the British child. Some publications even accuse the Portuguese police blatantly of her kidnapping. The Editor of this blog does not accuse anyone as some media sources are doing now, but very strongly suspect that individuals connected with the Portuguese officialdom are responsible for the crime. The characteristics surrounding the commission of the crime suggest that it was an abduction indeed but not carried out by a lone paedophile; it was a well organized criminal plan for specific purposes. We believe that time will confirm this theory.

"The truth of a lie" book by Goncalo Amaral is a cover up and a project designed to cash-in on a tragedy

Goncalo Amaral's book "The truth of a lie" fails to show beyond doubts that his theory on the disappearance of Madeleine McCann is true

Taken into consideration the social implications that child abduction in general represent, and the awareness on this tragic reality in today's society the case of Madeleine McCann has generated thanks to the massive media exposure, we wish to express our independent and neutral views based on what is written on the English version of the book we obtained from the Gerry McCann Blog. We also take note on what we think is a poor translation of the book into English and therefore, our opinions are made according to how we understand the contents therein. In addition, we don't agree with the contents in Amaral's book nor we dignify his person, and our views and/or opinions are only out of real concern for child abduction in general and not only Madeleine McCann.

In a letter dated September 15, 2009 sent to Gerald and Kate McCann now published on this blog following the injunction against further distribution of Amaral's book, this group wrote the following statement contained in the letter: "His book is the ultimate manifestation of the success in twisting reality to his advantage while protecting the interests of those on behalf of whom the abduction of Madeleine McCann was executed with precision."

We wrote the above statement long before having an opportunity to read his book but now that we have, our reaffirmation to the essential substance of the statement is even greater. Our position is and will continue to be intransigent unless something or someone demonstrates to us why and how we are wrong. There are numerous parts in the book that shed light on the deliberate incompetence and corruption we have been writing about for some time which support of our views expressed in different writings published on our blog. One new element we have found in Amaral's book is his own depiction as a victim of others above his rank who forced him to leave not only the case but also the police institution as well. In a section titled "an investigation destined for the archives" in Chapter 1 he tells the reader about how he knew the case was on the verge of being closed by the police director because it [...] "was beginning to undermine the police judiciaries and investigations in Portugal. Perhaps that was why it had to come to a close." We don't know how you interpret this but to us it shows gross police incompetence. To us it means that they don't have the know-how to deal with a case of such nature and their logic is to close it before their charade is "undermined." And what about the victim? We certainly don't mean to be an annoyance but will repeat it again-and-again as many times as necessary that since day one, there was no real interest by the Portuguese police to search for Madeleine McCann or the kidnapper, because they already knew why and how she was abducted and on whose behalf. What grounds do we have to make these statements? The book contents. We admit our surprised at the ease with which the author provide us with the support we need to back up our statements. We are no longer vulnerable to accusations of being inaccurate or false in our statements, because now we have the book to back up anything we may say or write on the subject. As feeble and fallacious as it is, the cornerstone of Amaral's claim is that Madeleine McCann die in the apartment and that her father transported the body somewhere to avoid responsibility for his daughter's death.

Amaral has declared on numerous times that he had the "honour" to have worked for the Portuguese police for twenty five years. The Policia Judiciaria [PJ] of Portugal has a reputation inside and outside the country, as being a very corrupted and inept police organisation in Europe; it is known to be an appendage of a judicial system unconditionally subordinated to a privileged elite class, who control the whole of Portuguese society with an iron fist wherein the social conditions are very similar to a third world country, that is, a small minority living in opulence while the great majority languish in grinding poverty. The poor people of Portugal regard the PJ as their ruthless bogeyman always ready to smash anyone challenging the present status quo in Portuguese society. Is this the police Amaral had the "honour" to work for twenty five years? And what about the savage beatings and torture of Joanna Cipriano's mother to force her into signing a confession? Back to the McCann case.

The name Clint Van Zandt is regarded among the intelligence community of the United States [US] as a reputable and high quality professional. He has an impressive curriculum covering at least thirty years of intelligence work at the Central Intelligence Agency [CIA] the Federal Bureau of Investigations [FBI] and as a US Army counter-intelligence officer. Amaral can't even come near these qualifications. In an interview with a Journalist from NBC, he told the audience that the key element in the entire claim by Amaral is timing. He explained in detail how and why it would have been impossible for Gerry McCann, to have transported Madeleine's dead body --as Amaral claims-- to a distant area and bury her. For him to have buried his daughter's dead body, he would have needed a considerable amount of time to dig a hole on the ground. How could he have done this by himself without someone seeing him? And what about the group of friends he and his wife were dinning with? They would have noticed his prolonged absence and question his whereabouts. The facts show a complete different scenario than what Amaral and his supporters want us to believe. Later in the same section of Chapter 1 he concludes that "the closing of the case certainly serves someone's interest." We don't know whether or not he realised at the time that what he wrote only confirmed what is now obvious: There were powerful interests behind who wanted the case closed for reasons we still don't know yet. The whole book is full of contradictions and inconsistencies, but we don't think is worth going into more details while knowing that sooner than later, we will arrive at the same conclusion already expressed in other writings long before reading the book: Amaral's book is a cover up of the truth and a shameless opportunistic commercial endeavour to cash in on a tragedy.

Any person with decency must not believe nor support whatever he does in his effort to deny that Madeleine McCann was kidnapped on behalf of a specific individual and for specific reasons. Is the individual Jose Manuel Barroso? The Christopher Story Journalist Investigation Agency reported that it was him. [See related writings on this blog]

Sergey Malinka took pictures of Madeleine McCann on the beach?

Why was Sergey Malinka's car destroyed ?

The Algarve Resident of Portugal reported on March 26, 2008 that a car belonging to Praia da Luz resident Sergey Malinka was destroyed by burning on the night of March 20, 2008. On the sidewalk next to where the car was parked the word "fala" ["talk" in Portuguese] was written in large letters.

Who is Sergey Malinka?

Sergey Malinka is a Moldavian-Russian man who has been living in Praia da Luz for about seven [or more] years. He is considered to be an expert in computer-related stuff and as a result is well known and enjoys a high social profile. He also operates a computer store in Praia da Luz. On May 16, 2007 he was interviewed by the Portuguese police in connection with the disappearance of Madeleine McCann on the night of May 3, 2007 from a room in an apartment at the Mark Warner Ocean Club in Praia de Luz. When the police arrived at his apartment to question him, he had already wiped clean the hard drive of his personal computer which contained hundreds of files known only to him. He denied any involvement in the disappearance of Madeleine McCann and the police could not arrest nor charge him with anything for a lack of evidence. How did Malinka find out the police were going to his place to question him in connection with the disappearance of Madeleine McCann? If he didn't have anything to hide why did he wipe clean the files on his computer? As a matter of record for anyone to verify, Sergey Malinka telephoned former suspect in the case Robert Murat on or about 10:30 pm on May 3, 2007 - just some 30 minutes after Madeleine McCann went missing. Phone records show that both men were in continuous contact during the crucial hours after her disappearance. In addition, Robert Murat's mother Jennifer who operates a bed-and-breakfast business in Praia da Luz confirmed that both men had met and talked lengthily before and after the disappearance of Madeleine McCann. Also, in its edition dated August 7, 2007 the digital magazine Variedad published a report featuring information on Sergey Malinka and his relationship with Robert Murat. According to the report, Sergey Malinka has a criminal background related to paedophilia, and his relationship with Robert Murat is based on common business interests connected to child trafficking, on behalf of international organisations with presence in Portugal and involved in this highly lucrative criminal enterprise. Malinka mysteriously disappeared from Praia da Luz shortly after Madeleine McCann was snatched from the bed she was sleeping on. The report by Variedad also included information on a large number of child-porn videos and pictures that were found at Robert Murat's house during a search after the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann had occurred on the night of May 3, 2007.

Sergey Malinka was [or still is] employed as a trip organizer by the Corlett Lines Company who owns the yacht "Naomi Corlett" which was believed to be the vessel that left Portimao in the early afternoon hours of May 3, 2007 and headed towards the Marina in Lagos to be positioned near Praia da Luz. As a matter of record for anyone to verify, Malinka was [or still is] an organizer of expeditions to remote islands off the coast of Africa on behalf of the Corlett Lines Company, and was also involved in offering boat trips in the Mediterranean and to the North of Africa. These business activities show that he had access to sea vessels before May 3, 2007. Also, telephone communication records available confirm that Malinka called his wife that was on board the yacht after its arrival at the Marina in the early afternoon hours of May 3, 2007. All of these and other facts suggest that Sergey Malinka was either directly involved in or has vital information on the kidnapping and disappearance of Madeleine McCann.

Sergey Malinka is also a man with different alias. According to reports published on the sergeant's inn website, Malinka is known also as "Nick Legaloff," "Nikolai Fedorenko," "Ivan Nikolayevich Petrov," and possibly other false names. Why so many fake names? What is he really up to that requires him to use so many fake names? These and many more questions remained unanswered on an individual whose shadowy activities make him a subject of interest in connection with different events, including what links to the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann. But above all, the biggest unanswered question is: Why was his car destroyed, and the Portuguese word "fala" ["talk] written in large letters next to it? Who wants him to "talk" about what? Whoever burned Malinka's car must have valid reasons to demand of him to "talk" in such a violent way. What does Malinka know that you and I don't regarding the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann? May we suggest that investigators currently working on the case give consideration to this information?

The banning of Amaral's book is a step forward in the struggle for the truth he covered up on behalf of perverts

rargiz@gmail.com

September 19, 2009.

Gerald and Kate McCann
Rothley, Leicester. Britain

Mr. and Mrs. McCann:

Having obtained a favourable judicial decision against the infamous campaign by Goncalo Amaral aimed at both of you, and with the purpose of sidetracking the attention from focussing on the truth of the case related to your daughter Madeleine, is important as it helps to debunk the ridiculous and fallacious theory that she died in the room and that you disappeared her body, all with the intent to cover up on behalf of others what he truthfully knows regarding the kidnapping of your daughter.

At this point, there is not a valid reason to get tired of repeating as many times as necessary that Goncalo Amaral and his associates know the truth related to the abduction of your daughter Madeleine. This assertion is made on the basis of extra knowledge acquired by subjects who were closer to inner Portuguese circles, wherein prominent social figures identified with the well-known entrenched paedophilia under world there, were the source of related information. Despite not being able to show tangible evidence to prove this it is nevertheless guaranteed not to be a mere subjective opinion. There are worthy objective reasons linked to the personal conduct of individuals arising from the idiosyncrasies of too many Portuguese men in the officialdom range, who are deeply involved in the realm of perversion within a country famously awash with hard-core paedophiles, and Goncalo Amaral has first-hand knowledge and information on them. He should become a subject of interest to the investigators. It is understandable that you may prefer to shun this reality as a valid element with which to look into it or investigate the mysterious disappearance of Madeleine, but when and if you do, an important and evident component of the entire matter is being overlooked. Should there be any doubts regarding the validity of this element embodied in the person of Goncalo Amaral, all you would have to do is look at the background of his performance since he was assigned to the case by then police chief Paulo Cristovao after Madeleine was abducted. If you did this, inevitably you will soon or later, encounter an assortment of meaningful reasons that will give you hints and contribute to enlighten you in understanding with clarity the dimension and depth of this terrible crime committed against Madeleine and you as parents.

The abduction of your daughter was a well-planned operation for specific reasons and by whomever in inner Portuguese officialdom circles, on behalf of one or more very powerful individuals in the elite class.

It would be naive to think otherwise. I can't send you prima facie evidence to show you but I know this is what happened and Goncalo Amaral knows the truth he was able to distort very effectively for the purpose of obtaining the desired results. His book is the ultimate manifestation of the success in twisting reality to his advantage, while protecting the interests of those on behalf of whom the abduction of Madeleine was executed with precision. She will not be found by using conventional investigative methods. Most or all child abductions within Portugal, were linked either directly or indirectly to the officialdom, and were meant to be permanent and irreversible thanks to their structure unofficially used to protect the real culprits when they periodically occur. In the history of child abduction in that country not one was found and though this does not sound encouraging it is the reality. Portugal does not have a high rate of child abduction like the United States or Britain do where kids go missing every day.

The judicial decision to ban Goncalo Amaral's book and DVD is in itself a positive step forward towards the possibility of uncovering the plot-like conspiracy aimed at suppressing the truth of an unsolved crime. His book should not be taken seriously because it is an unproved statement, put forward as a premise in an argument over something that has not been shown with solid evidence. He insists that Madeleine is dead as a result of you actions, but there is not a cadaver to prove his unfounded and fallacious claims. Again, he wrote a book and conducted a fake "investigation" of the crime only to give apparent legitimacy to something he knew was false and intended only to be a cover up.

An open letter to Jose Manuel Barroso on the abduction of Madeleine McCann

Robert Argiz, et al.
rargiz@gmail.com

November 19, 2009

Mr. José Manuel Durao Barroso
European Commission
Rue de la Roí 200
Brussels, Belgium. 1049

Mr. Barroso:

My name is Robert Argiz and I write you on behalf of myself and the community I live in regarding the kidnapping case of Madeleine McCann.

The Global Analysis International Intelligence Agency with headquarters in London, and led by veteran investigative Journalist Christopher Edward Harley Story [know also as Christopher Story] published on his website, an intelligence journalistic analysis which included a piece related to the case of kidnapped British child Madeleine Beth McCann, daughter of Gerald and Kate McCann from Leicester in Britain.

According to the report-analysis, you ordered the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann after seeing her pictures shown to you three days before she was abducted on May 3, 2007 and is now being held in captivity on your orders. The report-analysis informed also that on August 7, 2007 detective John Shore from the London Metropolitan Police intelligence unit confirmed that Madeleine McCann, was kidnapped on orders by a high ranking member at the European Commission, through individuals working for a paedophile organisation in Belgium with presence in Portugal, after receiving her pictures as an attachment in an e-mail message sent from a computer located in Praia da Luz. In addition, Mr. Story told an audience that his decision to publish your name was based on his indignation resulting from death-threats he received, by an unidentified man who spoke on your behalf demanding that the intelligence journalistic agency, abstain from mentioning you as the individual ultimately responsible for the crime. More detailed information based on the report can be obtained on this blog.

Our balance position on this matter is tilted towards the report published by the Christopher Story journalistic intelligence agency on the basis of its world renowned professional weight. We share the profession with the prestigious Christopher Story journalistic intelligence agency, but do not come near their level of sophistication and experience on the type work they have done throughout the past forty years, which include advising past British governments on important national intelligence issues, not to mention several appearances before Congressional Committees in the United States on crucial international affairs. We find these and other reasons to suffice our belief that the Christopher Story agency did not lied, when they published their intelligence findings on your involvement in the kidnapping of Madeleine McCann. It would have been totally suicidal had they done so considering your position and influence in the European Commission. There is also the relevant element related to the death threat Mr. Story received by an unknown individual, who demanded that your name not be made public in connection with the case. This incidental fact inevitably triggers additional ideas that tilt the balance even more towards convincing us that after all, it is true what the Christopher Story intelligence agency reported. Why would you want to stop --by means of death threats-- someone from publishing your name on the case if you did not have anything to do with it?

Mr. Barroso, other than the available information we have already shared with you, we do not have tangible evidence or solid grounds of any type to accuse you of what the Christopher Story intelligence agency said you did, but we think that what they reported is true. Hence, on this basis we appeal to your humanity and beg you to p-l-e-a-s-e end this terrible ordeal the parents and family of Madeleine McCann have been going through for more than two years, by allowing the child to be returned to her parents and home where she belongs.

We thank you for your time and attention to this matter and apologise in advance if you feel that we have been an annoyance in any way.

Robert Argiz, et al.
