3. Be very faithful: ready to rely on

I lose my best chance.

There are alternative readings. One is that it is not my job, and that, good as I may be, I had better not get further mixed up with Frank Harris - unless to sell him certain articles on literary & such matters. He was always violent, never straight, & now (as "my Life & Loves" proves) his judgment is completely gone.

The point is, though, that I love the man, & would do lots to help him out in his old age. So I am to plead desperately with him to give me a job - for his own sake!!

Not one word from Maud in a whole

Heard from Crawford yesterday: answered to-day.

Wrote 40 pp "The Soliloquy of King Henry VI." This afternoon.

Was much too tired & distressed even to try to get up. I am slowly wearing down to nothing. Without Energy to approach Frank Harris as intended. In my weakness I seem to have a morbid craving for hope. Even a hint of good news would help me enormously; and I am really so low that I wonder whether I should not be apathetic to bad news!

I am in the hands of the Gods. But I

5.10 P.M. Order of Thelmites. (I have taken me to worship, I did it in view of the Equinox to - night)

Chastity

All sexual acts are lawful

But two conditions must be strictly observed

(1) "Always unto me" (i.e. ~~Unit~~)

This means: ~~the~~ the act must be an austere Magical Act.

[Self-indulgence is baned.

Physiological necessity is pleadable, as being in accord with the Will-to-live (and to ~~be~~ work as best may be) See ~~(17)~~ ⁽¹⁷⁾]

(2) ~~(17)~~ "as y^e will" etc. The act must be one of love under will, not under coercion unless the proper conditions exist i.e. the natural sympathetic attraction ~~and the~~ combined with the technical Magical purpose.

[This is evidently an Ideal of Perfection, rarely to be attained. There will, nearly always, be found some need to compromise. That is, there will be an element of restriction somewhere. Even the "physiological need" alone mentioned partakes of the nature of a restriction of pure Will caused by the body. I find this, paradoxically enough! although the "Enthusiastic Energy" is wholly in harmony with the other equilibria.

5

~~It~~ No conditioned act can be wholly free: at the best, it relieves the existing stress to the maximum.
It is essentially therefore a destructive act. It destroys the existing potential energies (Two reducing to Zero) yet

5

it also creates the "child"

(Two continuing to form the twins 5.7 1)

(2) The second condition is a practical point of policy.

Whatever the act, it must not be allowed to lead to any consequence unless save that designed by (1)(a) and (b)
"There has to be right but to do they will" Marriage e.g. must have nothing to do with the matter. Nor must personal affection and the like be permitted to cause, or to spring from, the act.

[The above really follows from the clause "Strictly Medical"
The point is to avoid impurity in any form.]

5.35. P.M. I get a wake in my p. b. body.

I get a dyspnoea which is not quite spasmodic as thina, though resembling a mild attack.

The heart becomes labored; I have the feeling of having to lift a weight on the chest.

Nasal breathing, though apparently quite free, seems insufficient.

I always have to open the mouth

some or later, and gasp like a fish out of water.

This condition does seem to follow exertion mental or physical, but especially the latter.

I am far from sure whether ~~can~~ relieves it or accentuates it.

I take a second dose of solid ~~en~~ to test this point.

In any case, the solution (save perhaps the 10% - I'm not sure) is practically useless to give immediate relief. Its virtue is trophylactic, to supply a mild stimulation with no narcotic action.

I must note, by the way, that yesterday's doses have already destroyed, almost entirely, the rigidity which then existed.
There has not been to-day the immediate and violent reaction that surprised me yesterday.

I am fairly sure that the best remedy for the "Dyspnoea B" (as I will call it) described above is perfect repose of body & mind. Hand reading certainly makes it worse.

// Crestive writing relieves it!

I am practically convinced (from this observation) that the cause is definitely nervous exhaustion.
The cure must be say it in fresh air & simply because that kind of life tends to free the mind and renew the nerves.

Dyspnoea α may be merely the acute form of β , and yield to a strong dose of ~~an~~ by knocking the nerves flat (so to speak) by a ~~strong~~ narcotic power. I help this by anesthetizing & stimulating at the same time. (I have often noticed that a mere touch of of turns the tick, after ~~me~~ in large doses had failed. But of alone is no good at all; the ~~me~~ is necessary on account of its direct action on the tissue of the lungs.]

My general conclusion on this part of the problem is that drugs are fundamentally useless - and treacherous, the Lord knows! They are just Emergency Rations.

Consider Frater Felix Auri's case.
He recovered suddenly and completely in the Red Sea.

Why? He had been supplied with cash, had 3 weeks freedom from worry, and saw his dearly-longed-for East directly ahead of him.

He relapsed in Colombo, disappointed with Buddhists, and caught again in the struggle for life.

He recovered spontaneously in a few hours when I took him to Kandy as my guest. Same moral conditions as above: release from all material anxieties, proof

That he was loved enough for a man to come 8000 miles to give him a leg up, a better class of Bhikkhu than at Colombo, and the Holy Tooth in the Temple just across the Lake!

He relapsed again when he got to Akyab and found that the life of the Sangha was not all fun and feasting.

Mr. Hla Oung's generosity and devotion, Major Ross's dog-like attitude, boosted him once more. He saw 5

himself settled in life as a Gamis Loci, petted, tender, worshipped ———

And when the Nine Days were over, the As Thun came gradually back.

But it was relieved once more — and this is the most significant of all these observations — when non-nervous tropical diseases, fever, liver, gall-stones, &c gave him something more serious to worry over.

I conclude from all

Thus that the As Anectric is in fact a Malade-furieuse in a certain sense.

(I have found that a vigorous jump out of bed, a desperate shave, and a determined sortie have cut short quite bad attacks of β)

Notice that the wish to take ⁱⁿ as the easiest way of relieving the distress often increases it - partly perhaps because it supplies the needed "excuse to indulge". More, the craving for it is sometimes present when there is no distress at all; and if I allow my mind to dwell on it, an attack of β comes on in a few minutes.

Note that my theory of a minimum of age of $\frac{1}{2}$ in the system acting as a prophylactic is far too crude to approximate (near) to the truth. Again yesterday morning, I loaded up with α , only to get β badly in the afternoon the last moment I could afford the luxury of being ill i.e. directly the flow of my creative thought abated as I finished my Essay on The Holy King!

And β has been bad to-day, (from the overstrain, no doubt) despite quite free use of the solution, and my γ of age of ^{now in the system} certainly much weaker than two days ago

I am therefore confirmed — and increased therein — in my original thesis that (to generalize)

||| ALL FUNCTIONAL NEUROSES
ARE PSYCHOSES

$\therefore$ The remedy is moral: 93.

The above is not as flat & platitudinous, or as unconditioned a surrender to 'Love', as it may sound. I advocate a perfectly definite technique of cure, based on the broadest Hygiene. Will and Imagination are in fact much like ^{us} in itself - Emergency Repairs. But this is the best of it all (for me personally at the moment) that the Aspinneys (both 2 & 3) is in the same boat with the 'need' of ^{us}. They arrived together, to celebrate the

The Tragedy of October 1920 caused immediate relapse.
Prospects darkened again, too, and I got steadily worse till I secured the contract (+ advance)

On that the Asthma stopped; the ~~man~~ became quite voluntary.
I got worse again on Lea's bad similar moral blows. The me my "breath of life".

And it has got steadily worse
