Exempt Adept. The Word AL exists
in the Bk. of the Law, you did not "produce"
it & I did not receive it from you.
It was founted out to me by you,
w. is a totally different matter.
¶ The writer asserts that I have
proclaimed AL to be the Key of the Work but this is not the case.

The Word of the Law is Thelema.
This Word I rec'd from Aiwass in the Bk. of the Law, which contains internal evidence that Aiwass is entitled to the Grade of 10° - 1°. It is true, by the way, that there is a certain intimate connection bet. what the writer of the letter, calls my higher self & Aiwass, but this does not clash with the vitally important fact that He is an independent Intelligence whether incarnate or no. I look to Him & to Him alone for my instructions. Tho' these are not always given directly but thro' certain of His colleagues in the Order whose Grades vary. I have on occasion rec'd from thro' an Exempt Adept. The Word AL exists in the B. of the L., you did not "produce"
it & I did not receive it from you.
It was loaned out to me by you.
It is a totally different matter.
The writer asserts that I have
proclaimed AL to be the Key of the
Work but this is not the case.

So far as I attach any meaning to the phrase "the Key of the Work" the Word would be Akrahadebra, a Word ^{which} I "produced" by myself by a train of Talmudic reasoning in Mexico City in 1900 C.E. That I produced the Word & Aiwass "accepted" it gives me no claim to be superior to Aiwass. On the contrary I am profoundly honored that he designed to confirm my research by adopting it in the Bk. of the Law. See Chap. I Verse 20, where it is called The Key of the Rituals. Here Aiwass (or him) claims ~~to have given me~~ to have given me that word. This is not incompatible w. my own ignorant ^{regretful} idea that I had produced it by my own wonderful cleverness.

The Word A.L. is one of the 3 combinations which make up the No. of the Word of the Law. It is nowhere indicated in the Bk. that the discoverer of "the key of it all" (One of 4 keys, incidentally) is entitled to any Grade, soever, as such.

So far as I attach any meaning to the phrase "the Key of the Works" the Word would be Akrahadebra, a Word ^{which} I "produced" myself by a train of Talmudic reasoning in Mexico City in 1900 E.V. That I produced the Word & Aiwass "accepted" it gives me no claim to be superior to Aiwass. On the contrary, I am profoundly honoured that he 'deigned' to confirm my research by adopting it in the Bk. of the Law. See Chap. I Verse 20, where it is called The Key of the Rituals. Here Aiwass (or Unit) claims ~~to have given me~~ to have given me that word. This is not incompatible w. my own ignorant ^{egotistic} idea that I had produced it by my own wonderful cleverness.

The Word AL is one of the 3 combinations which make up the No. of the Word of the Law. It is nowhere indicated in the Bk. that the discoverer of "the Key of it all" (One of 4 keys, incidentally) is entitled to any Grade, soever, as such.

I have just rec'd a copy of the review
 y. were kind enough to write in the N.W. Christ of D.F. It gave me the greatest ^{deep kind} pleasure & encouragement at a time of the "distress & anxiety. Believe me I shall never forget the faith in my genius has done more than perhaps you dare give me to help me fling along.

I am just back from 10 wks. in the desert. Peace encompassed my soul & light informed it. I wrote quite a lot of poetry as I have not done for a v. long while & my latest critic Prof. M. tells me it is as good as I have ever turned out.

I am hoping to be able to get to Paris shortly. It is a question of scraping together somehow the cost of the journey. I am getting frightfully tired of having nowhere to sit down, go to sleep, to be cut off absolutely from one's head quarters is more of a strain than I should have thought from,
 esp. to one who is born wanderer as myself.

I will let you know as soon as I get within range. I hope, indeed, to be able to come to L. in the spring & trust I may find you flourishing as the wicked traditionally do.

All best wishes for the N.Y. to you &

I was somewhat surprised to receive your letter of the 5th instant. At the time when the Articles dealing with your career appeared in the Sunday Express I had some communication with Mr. Hammond and I then told him that as you did not think it necessary to meet the allegations made against you I was in some doubt whether I or my firm would be prepared to act for you any further and I also told him definitely that I should do no more work for you until our outstanding Bill of Costs amounting to £28. 14. 0. was paid; that account still remains unsettled.

I then heard, I am doubtful now through what channel, that your establishment at Cefalu had been broken up by the Authorities and that you had been forced to leave Sicily, and, if this be the case, I certainly could not consider representing you any further over here below following matter from all but 666.

Paris Fra O.P.V. is required to calculate this problem.
He is not to allow his Evil Persona to raise objections of any order whatsoever, but to apply himself to understand the essence of his instructions, and produce the desired results within fourteen days from date.

A stream averaging p ^{metres} feet in breadth has an average current of q km. p. h.

It is required to increase q by means of paddles driven by a series of crishmills. How many mills per km.

would be needed to ensure (say) doubling & trebling q ? What about tidal water?

The idea is (obviously) to save Paris from floods. Work this out, and we shan't have to worry about the r. m.
from the w.

I have friends here who would take up this with Govt provided you can show a fairly workable scheme. (Mind it should go, is the strong winds & the heavy rains go together. And it should be far cheaper than any canal scheme.
All that is needed is to pump off the excess during a few days only.
Set it all out as completely and clearly as you can. 666.

I am having little operations and spend most of my time in bed; but if you are still in Paris, I should like very much to see you Monday Tuesday or Wednesday next week. On Wednesday afternoon I have another little operation.

I want to thank you very much for your essay on Wilde. I think it of the greatest value as a document, representing as it does the only view not Anglo-Saxon of the man. I am contemplating a short essay myself as soon as my health permits serious work & hope you will allow me to quote some of your obiter dicta. The English writers on Wilde have all been obsessed by the need to defend either him or themselves, thus naturally rendering their observation almost worthless.

I had hoped that you would have written me about my own attempts at prose. Is there any chance of introducing them to the French public?

I have not yet received any translations from Monsieur Hunant, but am writing him by this mail asking when I may expect to receive the first drafts.
